OSHA Data Information Services (ODIS) is a premier compiler of consumer and business information that specializes in sourcing public records from federal, state, county, municipal and international governments. Its experience with the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and equivalent state and international open public records laws, along with long standing relationships with government agencies, offers efficiencies unavailable to those seeking to obtain government sourced data independently.

When businesses have OSHA problems, most want to correct the situation and prevent a recurrence. OSHA violators need a broad array of industrial hygiene and safety products. They are ideal prospects for the services of engineering firms, HR consultants for training, industrial services for cleanup, lawyers to defend them and more.

The information available includes company name, address, reason for inspection, inspection type and scope, inspection opening date, total number of violations, OSHA standard cited and penalties.
